

I believe it time for the FAA to allow transient aircraft to use the DC3 airports. It has been shown that general aviation pilots and their aircraft are not the threat to the Washington area. Open the DC3 airports because their economic survival as well as mine depend on them being accessible.

The FAA will be living up to its committment to open this airspace after a "procedural validation period." This period has long since passed.